

2009

This year was filled with magic, success, struggle and enlightenment. From the crown jewels of spending family Holidays, traveling to the mystical world of Japan, being interviewed regarding my art on BBC radio and being in personal contact with Royalty – to the turbulent moments of helping loved ones with serious conditions and dealing with unexpected challenges, 2009 has been a full & fruitful year.

Thankful - one word to describe all that I have loved, won and given. I shall cherish the energetically-enhanced memories in my ultra special memory box, also known as personal-soul-photography. Reactivating the essence for those moments when loneliness and struggle cometh.

In spite of the winds and some storms, from spending wonderful time in sunny San Diego to rainy Odaiba, I treasure the strong friendships encountered. Greatful to Ladies V, to Stephen King for allowing me to create a film based on his short story, to the Edinburgh Fringe for accepting my unique show entry, to Emily for a newly found quality partnership, to my work for keeping me busy and teaching me though patience and experimentation, to my friends, loves and most important, my family.

With Love,
Mikhail Tank
